EDITORIAL NOTE

The NIGERIAN INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED LEGAL STUDIES (NIALS), in pursuance of its establishment Act was set up to amongst other things, for the conduct research in any branch of law with a view to applying the result in the interest of Nigeria, providing information, supervision, guidance and advice to post-graduate students and other researchers in the field of law and law related subjects. Section 4 of the Institute's enabling Act provides the functions of the Institute, which, amongst many others, include to prepare and publish books, records, reports, journals as may seem desirable for the determination of research findings, seminars, symposia, conferences, findings of workshops and lectures, etc.

In fulfillment of its statutory functions, the Institute has thus set out with a vision statement which reads thus:

“To be the primary source of information, training and advice at the highest level of policy formulation on legal matters, effectively impacting on Local and International institutions in the development of law”

It is in the bid towards the actualization of its mandate that the Institute in 2010 decided to explore its mandate to the fullest. This consequently gave rise, amongst other things, to the commencement of publication of law reports.

The Reports, the publication of which has already commenced with the production of two volumes is known as the NIGERIAN INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED LEGAL STUDIES (NIALS) APPELLATE COURT LAW

REPORT (NACLR). It is thus cited as (2010) 1 NACLR & (2010) 2 NACLR. As the name connotes, the target of the report is the appellate courts of Nigeria that is to say particularly the Courts of Appeal and the Supreme Court. The publication is conceived to report very interesting, thought provoking and ground breaking judgments and shall be issued on a quarterly basis.

Given the dearth but relevance of legal research materials to researchers, legal minds and students, mindful of its obligation to fill in the gap as the highest legal research institute in the country by documenting and providing research materials easily available and affordable to the ever growing legal community in the country, the NIGERIAN INSTITUTE OF ADVANCED LEGAL STUDIES (NIALS) has taken this bold step into law reporting with the aim, not just to make available the judge-made-law through the cases to researchers in law and at an affordable price, but to give it a unique touch and style of reporting that is simple, straight to the point or stare decisis and where necessary, with footnotes explanations just as we give a serious encouragement to legal researchers, teachers of law, practitioners and students to intensify efforts at reading the judgments in full.

The law reports are commended to judges, practitioners, law academics, as well as students. We wish you happy reading and hope you will enjoy our volumes.
